Provider

The provider of this service is Standard & Poor's Information Services (Australia) Pty Limited (ABN 17 096 167 556) ("S&P Fund Services") at Level 45, 120 Collins Street, Melbourne, Victoria, 3000 Australia, phone (61) 3-9631-2000. S&P Fund Services holds Australian Financial Services Licence Number 258896.

Purpose of the Guide

This document is a Financial Services Guide (FSG). It sets out information designed to assist you in understanding:

1. the services we offer you
2. how we are paid
3. any potential conflict of interest we may have
4. our internal and external dispute resolution procedures and how you can access them

What financial services is S&P Fund Services authorized to provide to you?

Under its Australian Financial Services License S&P Fund Services is authorized to provide financial product advice to retail and wholesale clients in respect of the following classes of financial products: (1) deposit and payment products including (a) basic deposit products, (b) deposit products other than basic deposit products, and (c) non-cash payment products (2) derivatives (3) foreign exchange contracts (4) debentures, stocks or bonds issued or proposed to be issued by a government (5) life products limited to investment life insurance products as well as any products issued by a Registered Life Insurance Company that are backed by one or more of its statutory funds (6) interests in managed investment schemes including investor directed portfolio services (7) securities and (8) superannuation. This Service includes the provision of financial product research reports that are of a general nature. A summary of the criteria applied by S&P Fund Services in its research on financial products can be reviewed on request.

Investment warnings

S&P Fund Services provides general advice about financial products that may be accessed by wholesale and retail clients. S&P Fund Services financial product research includes statements of opinion, not statements of fact. Investors should make themselves aware of additional warnings included in specific financial product research reports. Financial product research and the information contained in financial product reports is of a general nature and has been prepared without taking into account the particular financial needs, circumstances or objectives of any person. S&P Fund Services recommends that investors seek independent expert financial advice from persons qualified to provide investment advice in the relevant territory before making any investment decision. Past performance is not necessarily a good guide to the future performance of a security or investment.

Who does S&P Fund Services act for when providing the financial services?

S&P Fund Services acts independently of any other person and provides its reports on its own account. It has no affiliation or association with any financial product or entity or related party of any financial product or entity for which it has published a research report. All views expressed in financial product research reports reflect S&P Fund Service's rating committee views regarding any and all of the subject fund or entity.

How are any fees, commissions or other benefits calculated for providing the financial service?

S&P Fund Services may be paid by the issuer of the financial product to issue a research report and may receive subscription fees from clients. The remuneration of S&P Fund Service's representatives is not related to the performance of any financial product or the fees paid to S&P Fund Services by any entity.

Complaints and dispute resolution

S&P Fund Services has established procedures for dealing with enquiries and complaints. If you have any enquiries or concerns about the services and products provided by S&P Fund Services you can call S&P Client Services on 1300-792-553, send an email to clientservices_pacific@standardandpoors.com or write to Standard & Poor's Client Services at Level 45, 120 Collins Street, Melbourne, Victoria, 3000.
